From the Director

Calling 2015-2016 a crazy year is an understatement... There have been incredible triumphs and a few crushing defeats. Of the many constants in the last four months, one has been Seussical™. Dr. Seuss has a way of taking a seemingly complex problem and reducing it to a much more manageable size. No matter what challenge I was tackling, I somehow felt that this show always had something to teach me...

Seussical™ explores a myriad of outlandish topics that at their core resemble issues far closer to home. Because of the way it is written, it will mean something different to each audience member. While my words mark this page, this show and all of it's success belong to the community that helped create and support it. I am so incredibly lucky to work with such amazing musicians, builders, actors, painters, dancers and designers. The students who worked on this show exemplify what it means to be passionate, dedicated, and always thinking outside the box. While words alone will never adequately express my gratitude to the many people who brought this show to life, I'd like to publicly thank the following:

The Parents: Thank you for all your hard work behind the scenes in your many roles as chauffeurs, ad sellers, errand runners, prop retrievers, set constructors, etc. The cast and crew appreciate you far more than they'll let on as teenagers. We are extremely fortunate to have such a positive, encouraging, and inspiring group of parents.

Williamsses: Thank you so much for your never-ending support. These "Williamsses' Productions" would not be the same if it was only my name on the list. I know you always have my back and I can't thank you enough!

Misha: Thank you for your undying support, your musical advice, your patience while keeping me sane throughout the production cycle, and willingness to sing about Horton the Elephant and Beezlenut Oil.

Becky Territo: Where do I even begin? First off, thank you for being amazing at what you do. You inspire the kids daily to challenge themselves and push past their fears and misconceptions. Thank you for being so supportive and helpful throughout this entire journey. I have felt so comfortable working with you and know you have the production's best interests at heart. Finally, thank you for making this production so much fun!

Tracy Rodriguez: I am so glad you signed up to work on the show for another year! You have helped me out so much by being autonomous and getting things done well and quickly. Your costumes look amazing and really bring life to this show. We couldn't have brought the pages of Dr. Seuss to the stage without you!

Ed Holub: Thank you for coming up to work on the high school production. Your crew runs like a well-oiled machine and gets absolutely incredible sets done in record time. Thank you for the countless hours you spend working with the students and literally watching paint dry. The wonderful looking set and effectiveness of the students you oversee speaks volumes to how talented you are at working with the crew.

Dr. Mayer, Dr. Foster, Ms. Avery, Ms. Rossi, Mr. Wyers: In this day and age where school arts programs are being cut or diminished at a record rate, it's refreshing to work with school administrators who are unwaveringly committed to a strong performing arts program. Thank you for your constant support and encouragement.

Georgiana Foti, Cindy Pope, & Melissa Avellino: Thanks so much for everything you do, your wise advice, and your patience. Thanks for all your help filing (and digging up) paperwork, mailing letters, cutting checks, and talking me down when I'm stressed. This production would not happen without you!

Kim Keener & Birch Wilson: Thanks for your constant assistance in keeping the auditorium in shape and arranging our custodial and scheduling needs. It means a great deal that we can always count on you!

Mike St. John: There is no way to thank you for your contributions to this or any show. You have truly become synonymous with a Robbinsville production. The amount of kids you have positively influenced is massive at this point, thanks again for your incredible passion and help throughout the years.

Cheri Dorwart: Thank you so much for proof-reading countless iterations of this playbill and making it look as good as it does.

I could go on writing for pages about everyone who helped shape this production, but I sadly only have one page (and the font is already so small it's barely readable). Thank you so much for playing a crucial part in Seussical™. Your role, "no matter how small," helped form this production in to what it is.

Sincerely,
Brian Williams

Notes for Our Audience

There will be one 15-minute intermission at the conclusion of Act I. Please visit the various Friends of the Raven Players stands in the Commons Area. All proceeds directly benefit the Raven Players!

Please note that the Cat in the Hat will be in the audience on a regular basis. Please keep the aisles clear at all times.

Please do not text during the production as the light from your device is extremely distracting to the performers and your fellow audience members.

Small children may have difficulty remaining still and quiet during the performance. Please take them out to the Commons area to minimize the distraction.
